IAE Aix Graduate School of Management, Aix Marseille Université (Aix-en-Provence, France)
The IAE Aix Graduate School of Management - part of the Aix-Marseille University - is located in the South of France, within France’s second largest metropolitan area after Paris. Founded in 1955, the IAE Aix was the first Graduate School of Management in the French public university system.

It is the only French public university entity to receive dual international accreditation: the European standard of excellence EQUIS in 1999, and the AMBA accreditation in 2004 for its MBA Change & Innovation, in 2005 for its Master’s programs and in 2007 for its Executive Part-time MBA and its Euro*MBA.

At the IAE Aix, highly qualified students & managers are trained to have a strong strategic and intercultural approach to international business based on bilingual courses, concrete work experience, conferences and case studies.

Committed to offering a quality educational experience to the participants, the IAE Aix continually seeks to deliver a unique and challenging curriculum that is recognized internationally by a dual accreditation: the European standard of excellence EQUIS, and the AMBA accreditation for its MBAs and Master’s programmes.

Students with three years’ work experience are only eligible for exchange to IAE Aix Marseille, France
Institute of Business Administration (IBA), University of Dhaka (Dhaka, Bangladesh)
IBA carries the distinction of being the pioneer of all the business schools of Bangladesh. It is absolutely free from any kind of session jam.

With a tradition of reflective thinking buoyed by a no-compromise quality orientation, IBA has taken many strides towards excellence. A strong combination of rich inputs and active processes in a supportive environment has made IBA the most prestigious professional training institute in the country.

Key strengths of IBA are:
A unique curriculum designed in line with North American Business Schools with the functional areas being aptly supplemented by various support areas.
An active learning approach where student participation is practiced and encouraged.
An effective teaching method with an optimum blend of experimental and experiential learning.
A highly trained and experienced faculty who bring into the classroom a multitude of experience and viewpoints.
Dynamic and motivated students.

A support culture for learning and research fostered within the same building with various essential facilities such as a computer center, library, canteen and rooms for group discussions.

Sabanci University (Istanbul, Turkey)
The seeds of Sabanci University, the Sabancı Group's most comprehensive social responsibility project in the field of education, were sown in the summer of 1995. Since 1999, when students began enrolling, Sabancı University itself has set an example for many universities.

The University aspires to develop students who are competent and confident individuals, enriched with the ability to reflect critically and independently, infused with a strong sense of responsibility for social change and through participatory teamwork, contribute to the development of science and technology created for the benefit of the community.

Since its foundation, Sabancı University has been responding to the ever-increasing needs of the society with its efforts in education, teaching and research, and has been in direct involvement with the society to understand its current and future needs. The Civic Involvement Projects of students, the active involvement of its faculty in educational, administrative and public policymaking, and its multifaceted contributions to culture and arts comprise but a part of the value our university creates.
